About the State

Oscar Thomas, who died recently at his home in Woodbury Center, was one of the oldest residents in town, having reached the age of 97 years.

H. U. Jeffs, a farmer of Wilmington, was dragging a hog to the scalding tub one day last week, when the hog slipped and Mr. Jeff, instead of the hog, fell into the tub. One leg was badly burned.

James K. Goodwin, a native of Fairlee, died Friday at the Beacon hill hospital in Manchester, N. H. He was 66 years of age and had lived in Manchester for forty-five years. By occupation he was a carriage maker.

Mrs. James M. Thayer has just died in Springfield at the age of 73 years. Mrs. Thayer had the distinction of being the first child born in the village of Wilmington. Her father, Adnah B. Childs, built the first house in the village.

Rev. Frank L. Garfield, who has been pastor of the Federated church at Castleton the past six years, has received a call from the Congregational church at York, Me., and has tendered his resignation to the Castleton church to take effect December 15.

Barni Stefanowicz, a helper on the rubber beds at the Rutland-Florence mills at Fowler, had his left leg badly broken Thursday, when four marble slabs to be used for electric switchboards fell on him. He had only been in this country two months.

H. N. Howley of Shelburne has just completed the shipment of 20,000 barrels of apples, which he purchased for a New York commission house. The apples were bought in Vermont, New York and Canada. Payment of $5 a barrel was made for firsts and $1.50 to $1.75 for seconds.

When J. M. Warden of Bradford recently gave up the duties of the telephone office there, one of the pioneers in telephoning went onto the retired list. With the exception of the years between 1895 and 1903, he had been operating there since April, 1890. He saw the Morse alphabet succeed the Bain alphabet and system, and says that for three or four years an operator had to be conversant with both systems in order to take whichever alphabet came over the line.

Jim Prokos, the Greek wrestler, who has appeared often in various places in the state in matches, met with a curious accident Tuesday in Attleboro, Mass. The wrestling match was very rough and, at the end of 25 minutes, Prokos seized his opponent around the waist and with head down, rushed him across the platform. So fast did they go that the Greek's head struck the wall with such force that quite a gash was cut in his head and he bit off the tip of his tongue. He was unconscious about ten minutes. His injuries are serious, thought not fatal.

The traction engine has been taken off the road at Morrisville for the winter and is being used as power for the sawmill at the asbestos mines in Eden where timbers and lumber are being saved out for the new building to be erected there next spring. Asbestos is being taken to Morrisville by teams in the winter and the engine is being used on sleds, on which tanks have been built. These sleds will draw asbestos out on top of the empty tanks, which are only two feet from the ground, and on the return trip will take oil, which is used at the mines for fuel for the engine.

Mrs. B. F. Rowland, whose husband was pastor of the Methodist church in Orleans a few years ago, but is now in Salem, Oregon, met with a peculiar and serious accident recently at that place. Mr. Rowland is president of the Orleans Mining company and has offices on the third floor of the National bank building of that city. As Mrs. Rowland attempted to step from the elevator, following another passenger, the boy shut the door, catching her as she was about to leave, and the car shot upward. Her head was struck against the top of the iron work, throwing her backward and leaving her limbs hanging out, and they struck the ceiling with such force that the tiling was loosened and fell out. It was found that her left leg was broken below the knee and badly crushed. The left arm was broken a little above the wrist, and her shoulder dislocated. The right leg was shattered above the knee and the whole limb crushed, bruised and dislocated. In addition to these injuries nearly all her body was bruised and hurt. She rallied in a remarkable manner and has a good chance for recovery. Mr. and Mrs. Rowland were well known in Vermont.

DYER NEW COLONEL OF VERMONT REGIMENT

Rutland Man Will Succeed J. Gray Estey as Active Head of the State Militia.

Chosen Saturday.

Brattleboro, Nov. 21.—At a meeting of the commissioned officers of the First regiment, V. N. G., held in the armory of Co. I Saturday to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Col. J. G. Estey of Brattleboro, Lieut. Col. H. Edward Dyer was elected.

Maj. H. T. Johnson of Bradford was promoted to lieutenant colonel and Capt. Frank P. Johnson of Company, Brandon, was elected major.

Of the 32 votes cast in the election for colonel Dyer received 28. In the election the rule of seniority was followed, although Capt. B. S. Hyland of Rutland declined promotion to the rank of major, to which he was entitled. Adj. Gen. Lee S. Tilton of St. Albans presided.

By command of Gov. Mead, a special order was promulgated Saturday morning from the adjutant-general's office, in which the following reference is made to Col. Estey's service: "The highest esteem in which Col. Estey is regarded by his subordinate officers is evidenced by the fact that on two previous occasions he has voluntarily tendered his resignation and each time he was induced to reconsider his action by the officers of his regiment."

"Much of Col. Estey's long and valuable service has been rendered at great personal sacrifice, but his deep interest in national guard affairs and his strong desire to promote the efficiency of his regiment has always prompted him to devote his best energies to its service. It is a recognized fact that the standard efficiency of the First Infantry, V. N. G., has been materially raised during the past ten years, and it is believed that such increased efficiency is largely due to Col. Estey."

THAT SMALLPOX CASE.

Situation Was Not So Serious As Was at First Reported.

White River Junction, Nov. 21.—Inquiry of the local health officer discloses that the dispatch in Friday's paper from this place relative to a case of malignant smallpox was incorrect in several particulars. The man had been ill in bed under a physician's care for three days before any symptoms of smallpox developed, and had not been on his rounds as garbage collector during that time. As no danger of contagion is possible before "breaking out" occurs, all alarm is wholly unneeded, and so far as ascertaining there has been no anxiety among the townspeople. It is also suggested that the housekeepers here do not keep their refuse in such parts of the houses as to require the collector to enter the residences or to expose the residents, in case such a thing had been possible. The patient is now doing well and all precautions are being taken by the health officer, who deprecates any sensational reports.
